

---

Join NC's Trauma and Resilience Equity Learning Community by August 20

NATIONAL COUNCIL FOR BEHAVIORAL HEALTH

With recent traumatic events of an international pandemic coupled with social unrest due to racial inequities and systemic racism, the need is clear: Community resilience-building is critical to healing, equity and wellness across our health care system.

Since 2011, the National Council has supported behavioral health, social service and community organizations to implement trauma-informed, resilience-oriented change. As a member of the 2020-2021 Trauma-informed, Resilience-oriented Equity Community of Practice, you will gain guidance, direction and a focused action plan to address our most pressing organizational issues related to systemic racism in our organizations and community.

With monthly virtual trainings, consultation and technical assistance, you'll develop the resources that respond to your organizational and community needs to cultivate sustainable change – all in a supportive peer-to-peer environment.

Apply Today

This Community of Practice will launch with a virtual kick-off meeting in October 2020.

Questions? Contact Ciara Hill at CiaraH@TheNationalCouncil.org.

Looking for a great example of community resilience in action? Read our blog post on why resilience is the source of healing and transformation from traumatic histories.