*Learning from Our Past:
Improvements in Disability Supports Through the 20th Century*

 Zoom Webinar | Tuesday March 8, 3-4 p.m.

For decades, persons with intellectual and developmental disabilities were institutionalized, with little regard for their dignity, their right to choose or their potential for growth and independence. Conditions were often overcrowded and even inhumane.

The Pennhurst State School and Hospital, in operation 1903-1987, is a chilling example of an institution that holds vital lessons from our past.

This free webinar will explore the mistakes made during the first half of the 20th century, the transitions from seclusion to self-advocacy and the long overdue respect for persons with disabilities.

Introduction by Maggie Rothenberger,
